On Golf

There must be something to this whole golf-and-business thing after all. Like in business, "All players occasionally get into trouble. The best thing to do is to seek a direct route to safety. Sacrificing a single stroke isn't the end of the world, or of your round. Trouble turns into disaster when a player tries to follow one bad shot with a miraculous recovery that he or she lacks the talent and resources to produce."

Steven Covey in his recent bestseller "Masters of Executive Excellence."
